The fact that Eventsforce Awards can integrate with my CRM system is also a huge bonus as it helps me increase my outreach and increase the number of submissions."

The HR Manager

"From experience, I know that internal awards programmes are one of the most effective ways of boosting employee performance, increasing productivity and lowering our turnover. I use Eventsforce Awards to run my internal employee recognition schemes as it cuts out a lot repetitive administration tasks, leaving me with more time to focus on other aspects of my job."

The Submitter

"Award submissions can be a painful – I'm far more likely to go through with it when the submission process is quick, simple and easy to understand."

The Judge

"It takes time to effectively review an award submission and give my feedback to the organiser. The facility to do this online from any location helps. It also helps if I get personalised email communications that inform me of new submissions or any approaching deadlines."
